Momentum Healthware Fortifies Executive Team for Market Expansion

Winnipeg, Manitoba, August 31, 2006 – Momentum Healthware, Inc., an industry-leading developer of healthcare solutions in Canada and the United States continues to experience strong market and financial growth. For the third consecutive year, Momentum will achieve record-breaking performance in North America, and the company has strengthened its executive team to support this expansion.

The Momentum Board of Directors has announced that Charles LaFleche, founder of Momentum in 1995, will assume the role of Founder and Chief Business Development Officer. LaFleche is a luminary in the Canadian healthcare informatics marketplace. He is a founding board member and Treasurer of the Canadian Health Information Technology Trade Association (CHITTA), sits on the board of the Standards Council of Canada, the Infoway Standards Advisory Council, and the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) and the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) working groups that oversee standards in healthcare informatics. LaFleche will focus on opening new markets in Canada for Momentum's enterprise electronic health record and related applications.

Dan Malmstrom has been named President and Chief Executive Officer to guide Momentum through its next phase of expansion in North America. Malmstrom is a 25 year veteran in the technology industry, including twelve years with Great Plains Software. Malmstrom held various executive positions during Great Plains' rapid growth, its successful initial public offering, and the subsequent sale to Microsoft for $1.1 billion. Malmstrom also had a stellar sales career with IBM, evidenced by his National Rookie of the Year and Golden Circle Awards in the United States. Malmstrom has founded and sold several technology companies during his career.

“Our board knows Dan Malmstrom very well, having worked with him over the past two years in a strategic advisory capacity” says Dave Wattling, Chairman of Momentum Healthware’s Board of Directors. “He brings an impressive blend of operational acumen and entrepreneurial savvy to our team, exactly what Momentum needs during our next phase of expansion.”

Dennis Stewner, CA has been promoted to Executive Vice President and Chief Operations Officer. His distinct focus will be to prepare Momentum’s operations and delivery systems for scalability and client fulfillment. Prior to joining Momentum, Stewner spent several years at Assante Canada where he held various executive positions including VP of Finance, VP of Wealth Management and Director of Strategy and Planning. At Assante, Stewner gained significant experience planning and executing the integration of several operating companies during a period of rapid growth in the financial services industry.
